

Reconquista of the small municipalities from Torreblanca, Castellón – Paul Elvere DELSART

Rural Spain now takes control of the country through non state networks – From Torreblanca, Castellón

From Torreblanca, in the province of Castellón, Spain, I inform you of a social transformation initiative of exceptional magnitude, unprecedented in our contemporary history. Through this message, I take the liberty of announcing that rural Spain, long marginalized and ignored by the major decision-making currents, is finally taking control of its own destiny. Not through insurrection, but through the constructive action of non-state transnational networks, methodically orchestrated by the EL4DEV social engineering program.

This process, which I call the Reconquista of the small municipalities, takes shape through the ambitious subprogram entitled The Municipalities Counter-Attack. Its objective is to restore autonomy, territorial sovereignty, intellectual cooperation and the dignity of municipalities with fewer than 5,000 inhabitants (and eventually up to 7,000), by elevating them to the rank of main actors in local, regional and national renewal.

Through a set of innovative agreements and Societal Economic Interest Groups, these small municipalities become co-owners of ecotourism, educational and agroclimatic infrastructures bearing the LE PAPILLON SOURCE label. These are not mere structures: they are the commanderies of the new Green Empire of the East and the West, also known as the EL4DEV Confederation.

From Torreblanca, a pioneering municipality despite a still hesitant local administration (as it has not yet taken a stance), I asymmetrically mobilize youth and citizens around this transformation project which, although globally recognized, is still seeking its first official Spanish allies (or not, for they may not be needed). Do not worry, they will come. Just as castles took time to rise, each Vegetal Caldera, our vegetated fortresses emitting beneficial electromagnetic fields, will rise with patience, humility and grandeur.

We are not merely proposing infrastructures. We are laying the foundations of a new social contract, a new geopolitical organization and a new social world order, based on intellectual cooperation, Societal Diplomacy and shared progress. This model, which some might call utopian, is already germinating in minds around the world and will soon become tangible through concrete tools: the Big Smart Data EL4DEV, the GREEN COIN EL4DEV, intellectual and artistic cooperation initiatives, among many others.

This initiative is neither a fantasy nor a megalomaniac delusion, but a systemic, multidisciplinary and deeply human response to the ongoing civilizational collapse: economic, ecological, cultural and institutional.

I extend my hand to you with solemnity, but also with a touch of mischief, for you see, power no longer hides in Madrid, Barcelona or Brussels. It is germinating in experimental cities and in the co-constructions of the future. The Reconquest is gentle, intellectual, vegetal and joyfully resolute.

This international action plan places Torreblanca at the heart of the EL4DEV Second Renaissance Movement, mobilizing its inhabitants around a collective project full of meaning, innovation, solidarity and local sovereignty. It is replicable in other small Mediterranean municipalities, thus creating a network of territories committed to a sustainable global transformation.

I am an ideological influencer because I carry a structuring ideology: that of social globalization, a model of distributed governance, a new diplomacy based on intellectual and cultural exchanges, a hypercollective society that rejects dehumanized individualism and technocratic domination. I propose another path, one in which small territories have the power to initiate change, where citizens become the designers of their environment, where values of sharing, spirituality, cooperation and regeneration replace those of competition, predation and consumption.

My project disturbs because it breaks the codes, restores power to the collective imagination, relies on systemic intelligence, social innovation, a new political aesthetic and active spirituality. I accept being polarizing because what I propose is demanding, because it requires a deep revision of established certainties. The polarization I provoke is not an obstacle, it is proof that my message acts, that it resonates, that it generates inner movements. It is a necessary step toward the dissemination of my realistic utopia.

I invite you, as representatives of our institutions, to consider this profound transformation with the utmost attention and to participate, with full awareness, in this historic endeavor. Whether you believe it or not, I assure you that government structures have been studying my proposals for years in the shadows, far from the media spotlight and official statements.

Torreblanca is today, by strategic decision, the beating heart of a global movement, and you can be its first allies.

Respectfully,

Paul Elvere DELSART
