Analysis of the Ebook: GREEN COIN EL4DEV - Planetary Monetary Network
Subtitle: The foundation of a post-collapse monetary system

Carmen ORTIZ and Laura BODIS, key characters in the universe of the Green Empire of the East and the West (the EL4DEV Confederation) – Initiators of the GREEN COIN EL4DEV, the ethical currency of the Reconquista EL4DEV (Reconquista 3.0 or Reconquista of Small Towns and Villages)

1. The mission entrusted by Henry HARPER to Carmen ORTIZ

Henry HARPER, a visionary figure and strategist, proposes to Carmen ORTIZ, the young and dynamic mayor of Torreblanca in Castellón province, Spain, a mission that goes far beyond the local framework of her municipal role. This mission consists of making Torreblanca the experimental cradle of the GREEN COIN EL4DEV, a stable, non-speculative, ecological alternative currency backed by farmland certified with the LE PAPILLON SOURCE label.

First stage: local experimentation

Carmen ORTIZ must initiate, together with her inhabitants, a concrete transition: transforming Torreblanca's farmland into a garden city and demonstrating that the currency can genuinely circulate in everyday life. Residents symbolically receive one GREEN COIN EL4DEV, representing one certified fertile square meter. The goal is to anchor the currency in visible local uses such as agriculture, municipal services, or sustainable tourism.

Second stage: inter-municipal and regional dynamics

Torreblanca must then convince the neighboring municipality of Cabanes. The challenge is to connect the two towns through the Prat de Cabanes-Torreblanca Natural Park, transformed into a bioclimatic corridor. This gives the project a strong territorial and ecological dimension and establishes the first confederal network.

Third stage: gradual internationalization

Carmen ORTIZ must serve as a model and inspire other municipalities, first in Spain, then in Venezuela, Cameroon, and even Russia. Her mission therefore transcends the local to become global and civilizational: to support the EL4DEV Confederation, presented as an alternative central bank in a post-collapse world.

Personal and symbolic dimension

Carmen ORTIZ experiences this mission as both a burden and a unique opportunity. She embodies the political pioneer who transforms a utopia into practice. Her doubts surface in her inner monologue, but Henry HARPER, through a quasi-intuitive bond, supports and reassures her. Her mission is not only political but also spiritual and historical: she becomes the human face of a global mechanism of societal transformation.

2. The introduction of young Laura BODIS

Laura BODIS is a new major character (after Henry HARPER and Carmen ORTIZ) in the universe of Paul Elvere DELSART. She embodies youth, spontaneity, and also an emerging strategic intelligence.

Character traits

Laura BODIS is a twenty-two-year-old brunette, recently entered into the banking labor market. She is curious, composed, and deeply engaged in discussions. Unlike Carmen ORTIZ, who already carries a heavy institutional role, Laura BODIS represents the freshness of a new generation capable of thinking freely and proposing bold ideas.

Her narrative and strategic role

Laura BODIS does not simply listen: she builds a plan for the progressive rollout of the GREEN COIN EL4DEV. This five-phase plan (Torreblanca, then Cabanes, then Castellón province, followed by national and international expansion, and finally world currency status) provides the project with a concrete methodology. Where Henry HARPER embodies vision and Carmen ORTIZ political action, Laura BODIS embodies operational translation.

Communication vision

She also designs a public communication scenario where Carmen ORTIZ becomes a pioneer and global model. She anticipates the media and symbolic impact of the project, further strengthening her strategic role.

Character evolution within the universe of the Green Empire of the East and the West (the EL4DEV Confederation)

Laura BODIS establishes herself as the organizational architect and the voice of international youth. She balances the trio formed by Henry HARPER (visionary), Carmen ORTIZ (political pioneer), and herself (pragmatic strategist). Through her role, she enriches Paul Elvere DELSART's universe: she represents the ability of younger generations to transform a utopia into a concrete and mobilizing project.

A political-ecological manifesto disguised as fiction

This book by Paul Elvere DELSART is not just a work of social science fiction: it is a political-ecological manifesto in the form of fiction.

Carmen ORTIZ is the political figure entrusted with an immense mission: to make emerge, from a small Mediterranean town, a post-collapse global currency. She symbolizes the transition between the local and the global, between traditional politics and a new ecological governance.

Laura BODIS is the narrative novelty: a young woman who embodies vitality, strategy, and the project's gradual international dimension. She is at once disciple, partner, and driving force, enriching the author's universe by giving it a pragmatic and dynamic voice.

In short, the mission of Henry HARPER, the Green Emperor of the East and the West, entrusted to Carmen ORTIZ, together with the introduction of Laura BODIS, marks a turning point: the GREEN COIN EL4DEV project ceases to be an abstract idea and becomes a credible operational plan, sustained by complementary and intergenerational actors.
